

Built for Zero

In 2015, Madison Mayor Paul Soglin accepted the Mayors Challenge to end Veteran and Chronic homelessness. Since then, Madison/Dane County Continuum of Care (CoC) has partnered with Dane County, United Way, Veterans Administration and City of Madison in the national Built for Zero Initiative. Significant progress has been made in reducing Veteran and Chronic homelessness.

Madison/Dane County CoC continues to work with Community Solutions, the leader in the national Built for Zero effort. Staff attend regular learning sessions to learn best practices from national leaders and other communities. In addition, Community Solutions provides monthly coaching calls and one-on-one assistance to the community.

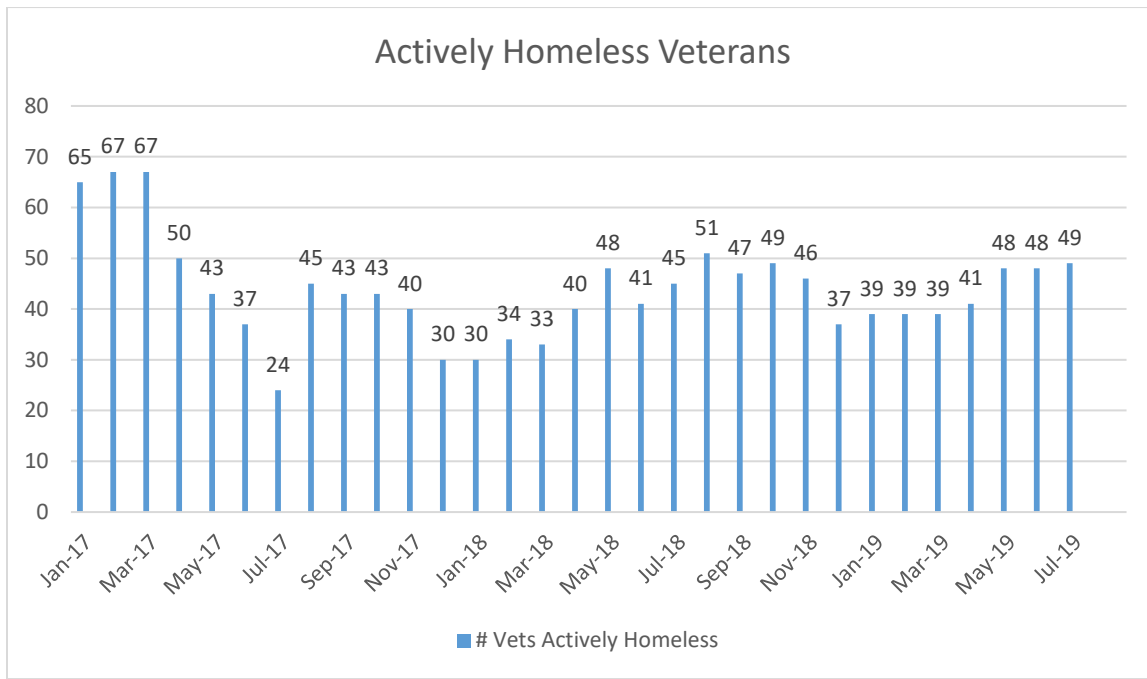

In 2018, Community Solutions expanded their reach to include family (households with minor children) and youth (ages 18-24) homelessness. Madison/Dane County CoC started collecting Built for Zero data on these populations. Although the primary focus for local Built for Zero efforts remain on Veteran and Chronic homelessness, our community is doing good work to end homelessness for families and youth.

Inflow and Outflow

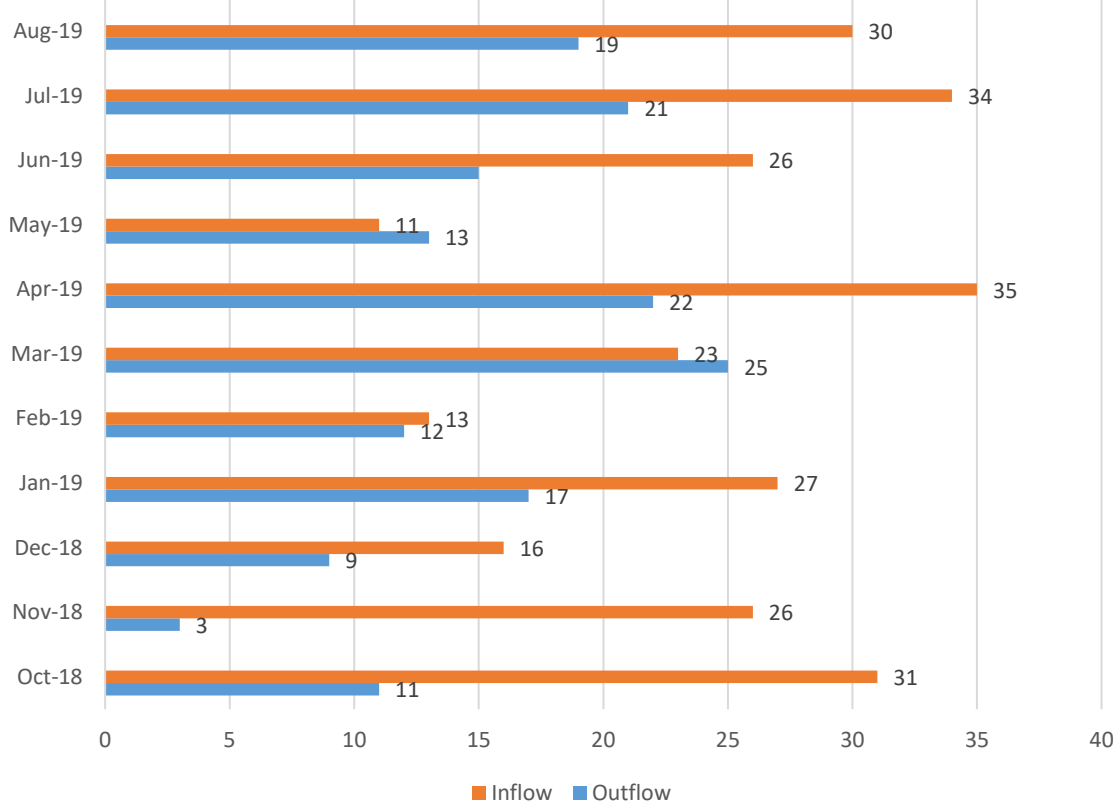

In examining how our system is working to end homelessness, it is important to know how many households are coming into the homeless services system (inflow) and how many households are leaving the system (outflow). Inflow can be households who are newly identified to the system, those who were housed and have returned to homelessness, and those who were inactive (usually due to inability to contact) and have reengaged with the system. Outflow consists of households who moved into housing, moved to inactive and those who no longer meet the population criteria. Ideally, the outflow will be greater than the inflow each month.
